

I am against cell phone use during commercial airline flights. People using cell phones in public places (eg., buses, restaurants, etc) talk loudly and disturb everyone around them with their personnel conversations which nobody wants to hear. In an enclosed space with no openings available (eg. windows, doors) during flight this problem is even worse. Nobody flying a commercial jet needs to be in constant communication with the rest of the world.